

Winter Will Come

Nosound

dark clouds
away and over again
falling leaves
moved by air
a wind from far suddenly appeared sounds from the sky
in my ears

a well known smell all around in the air silently...suggesting...invisibly it started to rain your silence louder than words from your mouth and the future declined day after day, month after month through the maze of your mind infecting our path with several mines I know I was wishing to escape but I fell through the holes I create it's a pleasing feel to touch your skin to be here, with you, breathing again like thousanda windows on the infinite time in the dark sky the stars light shines bringing us the story of the time before the start of dead and born worlds of planets and stars

like thousands windows on the infinite time
in the dark sky the stars light shines
of dying and born worlds of planet and stars

the sun on the sea
the reasons to fear
the silence that grows
the hate growing slow
the gap between us
the warmth leaving us

we see what we did
the places we lived
your voice speaking low my voice leaving noise
the phone in your hand
your path to the end

we left our thoughts and things flowing through the faces of friends
the fire on the sand
the stars in the night
planets and skies

is what you believed
to what disappeared
already in the dark I'm dying in your heart
the summer has gone

and winter will come

it arrived...and left us behind