The Dream and the Escape

Noumena

My heart devours the emptiness This lonely need from deep within To breach through these decadent dreams My heart yearns for a step astray For an escape, perfect deceive To break through these elegant needs

I am crawling before thy grace Leave me to die alone I am cringing before thy tears Leave me to thrive in pain

This fateful essence All life's adornments Too distant from this realm Absent from this world

So let us stray Enter dream, escape Lull ourselves into oblivion And let us wait For a serene day Lead ourselves into delirium

I deny this fateful coil forevermore