When Desperation Fills the Void

Novembers Doom

The parting is now upon our kind dividing the weak from the strong left alone in the moonlight dance day to day we drift further and further away

i refuse to die for you my scars are more than i need to prove tomorrow brings a life without grief the powerless cause leads me to light again you've turned your back on me for the last time i close my eyes to ignore your black pinted world forever tired of pretending I once believed punish me but i'll no longer live this lie

i refuse to die for you my scars are more than i need to prove tomorrow brings a life with our grief the powerless cause leads me to light again

The innocent no longer feeds my guilt I have yet to walk away from the numbing fate This passion i seek slips through my hands The blood is my life and i'm filled with envy this is when you scream out loud when the desperation has filled the void begin your walk for the miles await bare your cross through destiny's end

i refuse to die for you
my scars are more than i need to prove
tomorrow brings a life without grief
the powerless cause leads me to light again