Sirens In Filth

Novembre

Bitterness blows in the heart Like chilly draughts in the hall Of a crystal castle Lost among clouds made of gold

Those anxieting visions Images behind frozen windows Make my eyes bleed Ebony blood

When the silvergray fluid shall crack reality's walls Mixing with blood and filth as sirens swimming in pitch

When the sweet arcades of these desperate our owns Trickle down upon yhe misery of this dead everyday life

Like pitch on your wings Like a child lost in a war Like dark paint upon a shiny picture Like dirty sperm on a toy

And whwn the new star will shine of its own black And there will be nowhere to shelter Maybe they'll understand who we are What we'll always cry for