

Waiting

Novice

This is what you've been waiting for all your life
And you're asking me for more
And I know...

I know the things that you've been through
You've built these walls so high around you
You need to know that it's alright to let go
Let it all go and let me in Let me in

Don't walk away
Don't run from me

This is what you've been waiting for all your life
And you're asking me for more
And I know, I know
This is what you've been waiting for all your life
And you're asking me for more
And I know

I see the panic in your eyes
I know it keeps you up at night
You think they're all against you
You're holding onto giving in
You think you're on your own
Stop trying to hide from me
Don't walk away
Everything clears up in time you'll see

This is what you've been waiting for all your life
And you're asking me for more
And I know, I know
This is what you've been waiting for all your life
And you're asking me for more
And I know

That this is everything we need
You're talking in your sleep
All your pieces have been falling out
You think this is a game we play
There's so much more to life than searching
Don't be so sad, you're almost there

This is what you've been waiting for all your life
And you're asking me for more
And I know, I know
This is what you've been waiting for all your life
And you're asking me for more
And I know