In Memory

To Hard to believe And it still hasn't hit me Confusion as to how I feel And I need to be shown The direction I should go Take everything and never be the same

Manipulated minds and suffering Trying to hold back all of these feelings I'm blinded by hate and misery To afraid to face reality It seems so unreal but I can't deny These of thoughts of you that still remain in my mind Realizing that your never coming back

And that's the way we left it And that's the way it's dealt with No where, no where to go but down

There's too much to take and there's no way I could ever imagine how I feel today And still you pretend that it's nothing new As if all this doesn't concern you But still I picture you, in memory

And I just can't believe This is really happening That one's mind could so corrupted Take it all away And never feel the same You'll live with it and never forgiven Nural