

Coincidenta Oppositorum

Oblomov

I can't hide to shadows without the light, I'm trying to explain

you how black clouds could turn to white

My thoughts are progressive, I lead you to the future,

Then I look back and turn myself to negation of mine...

We are the heavens, we bring you the power

From the seas and oceans jets the geyser of pleasure

Fire brings me glory from deserts and fertile valleys

In thunder I feel energy - rising

With the help of the wind I can penetrate much deeper

Falling rain from the sky brings danger into my mind

Nothing is certain in this world just the mountain stands still

Submissivness controls me in the embrace of the Earth

Something puts me into the motion, may be it's just one side

But without the other one I don't feel complete,

Concurrently with emptiness is filled my mind

White eye is watching through the black field,

Male element completes the sign

How could you want to love me, just hatred can let it realize

Here in this space it doesn't matter-if I am God or I am Devil

Negative pole pulls contrary - positive sincere power

High are snow mountains above,when you stand under pointed shields

Just from fields and the deepest valleys you can see their mighty greatness

I am your eternal enemy, I keep you still alive

I'm disgust - the slave of grace, which serves to your eternal cry

My sight stares to the east - every day, every morning I wait for the sunrise

My wish is to catch all that joy before all the light will go out

Something has stopped my motion, perhaps it's an impulse from the other side

Two gates lead to my future, but I'm passing between them

Black eye is watching through the white field, female element completes the sign

How could you want to hate me, just love can let it realize...
