

Staring from the hills down to the valleys
I see falling leaves, streaming light changes their colours
Sun is shining bright through my unsteady mind
Just the eagle in the sky is still flying high above my head

Clear water is flowing away
Cold river is still changing
Sadness alternates happiness
Memories are fading

Rain is falling from the sky
Tears are dripping from your eyes
Then they will dry and fall again
You can feel the wind in your hair

Through the misty window I can see
Falling flakes of snow onto the ground
Autumn is gone again, winter stands before my eyes

In all the motions I can see
All those signs, you give to me
Nothing can be stopped for a while

Hear the cry of a little child
Hear the lament of an old man
Both of them have to die - once again

Words of a sad song you can sing
Then when you end, you can begin
Tenthousand times from beginning - again

Let me touch the river, which is flowing seemingly slowly around
I wanted to try to break all those unknown bounds
To stay in a moment, try to stop the time
Please I believe it can be at least for a short while

Sound of murmur seas, waves of running time
Sounds through galaxies, we are drifting around the Sun
Wrinkles on our faces grow with each second ( You ) can't wash away all traces of age from all around

Moments of clarity fills my clearless, blinded mind
I believe I can trust at least for a short while
(But) my hope is going on I can't see you and your cry is resounding through silence, dancing on the point high above

Clouds in the sky are changing their shapeless shapes going astray in the night, appearing in white daylight
Power of the fight, causes the evil war
Love bring us peace, suddenly it's after the storm

Echoes of the past are crossing the way of doom
Hearts inside each of us, yearning, breaking every rule Flames are burning future, all it seems so cruel all sorrow and pain will be gone with memories of you