

Where do you go buttoned in your favorite coat
Stepping out to a different world
And you might be home late
And where are you now
Staring at your favorite box
The one with the traveler's cross
On the road past the gate

But if you find yourself standing on the corner
While you're thinking of a different world
Then you might see me waiting on the corner
Staring through you in your different world

And if I could swim
Then I'd get out and find my boat
Sail away to my favorite coast
And let you all in
And if I could do all the things you're asking for
Then maybe I'd find your door
And bring it home to you

But if you find yourself standing on the corner
While you're thinking of a different world
Then you might see me waiting on the corner
Staring through you in your different world

So where do we go
Like two Christophers in the snow
Yeah we're blind but we want to know
Just to say I love you
And all of our lives
We'll sail through the suns and moons
To sing our travelers tune
Just to say I love you
