

Seek Advice Elsewhere

Off With Their Heads

A little wisdom I can recall
There's nothing to lose when you've lost it all
And there's no hope for anything getting any better than this
You hit the bottom, you think that's all
But the bottom opens up and you continue to fall
And everywhere you turn to yell for help it goes unheard

A bit of wisdom I can recall
There's nothing to lose when you've lost it all
There is no hope for anything getting any better than this
You hit rock bottom, you think that's all
But rocks give way and you continue to fall
There's no end, and your cries for help remain unheard

I know more than I need too
Sometimes it's nice to see through
All the depressing shit that brings me down
I don't see anything, anymore
I just want out, I just want someone
To take me away from myself and show me something more

I need some time, to find my place
I need some time, to find my place
I need some time, if it's ever gonna get any better than this
Any better than this
Never gonna get any better than this