

Stolen Away

Off With Their Heads

Steadily sinking while wading my way through,
The current that always carries me out of view
I'm always unable to say what I need to
The road that brought us together takes me away from you

There is no future just struggling to stay afloat
No plans for children, no plans for growing old
Everything I have laid out is all true
The road that brought us together has taken me away from you

I'm not gonna change after everything I've been through Even if I could I know you wouldn't want me to
But I am in pain and I don't know what I should do
The road that brought us together has taken me away from you

The road that brought us together has taken me away from you
The road that brought us together has taken me away from you