Last night I dreamt of you, Abbie Hoffman peddling your books I gave five bucks to you, the other kids just gave you dirty looks

I said, "I'm sorry it didn't work out quite the way you planned

You said, "That's silly, boy, the revolution is at hand"
And if you got a ten spot brother, I got a dime
These are desperate, desperate times
Last night I dreamt of you, Pepe Lopez strung out on a stage

Last night I dreamt of you, Pepe Lopez strung out on a stage It don't even look like you, smiling like sawed- off twenty gauge

I still remember the Telecaster down around your knees
It's late November and I think I smell tequila on the breeze
And if you got the Cuervo, honey, I got the lime
These are desperate, desperate times
And if you got the shotgun, honey, I got the crime
These are desperate, desperate times