Lullaby

Olivia Newton-John

I give you stars and sunshine A rainbow at your feet each time you rise So dry your eyes The house of yesterday is crumblin' at my feet But I don't mind, I had my time

I am but yesterday And you my child, tomorrow There's nothing I can give you For you have more than me You are the truth within your youth

I watch you dance and playing The little prince of all that you survey Each night, each day I am the good old days, And you my child, tomorrow

If I have any future It is within your eyes Each time you smile My child, my child The hand of life will rock you I brought you forth And then my task was through I give to you This wondrous view

I am but yesterday And you my child, tomorrow And you my child, tomorrow And you my child, tomorrow
