

The Right Moment

Olivia Newton-John

Spinning on another wheel
Going round in slow motion
Caught up in another dream
Drifting on a blue ocean

When you gonna reach out
Only you can turn your world around
When will you surrender
And wake up to the real

But you don't want to start just yet
You watch the seasons come and go
You remember and then you forget
All along the way

You can make a better life
You're just waiting for the right moment
You can find another way
You're just waiting for the right moment

When you gonna let go
And forget about the life you knew
When will you surrender
And wake up to the real

Now you know that it's all borrowed time
Still you waste another day
But you watch and you wait for a sign
All along the way
