

History of Modern, Part II

OMD

The first mistake is when you take
What you thought you'd changed for granted
All that's certain runs aground
All is lost that had been found
The next mistake is when you break
Every rule that you invented
Can you feel it coming down
Can't you see it all around

Tear the picture from the page
Let the dog out of the cage
And surrender to the rage
I don't want a thing to care

The last mistake you ever make
Thinking modern is new forever
Can you feel it coming down
Can't you see it all around

Tear the picture from the page
Let the dog out of the cage
Then surrender to the rage
I don't want to think again

Tear the picture from the page
Let the dog out of the cage
Then surrender to the rage
I don't want to think again