The speed of light slows down
As the feather hits the ground
And if nothing else gets proved
It's always faster than it sounds

A star that shines so bright Would be eclipsed tonight When you kiss the satellite Because there was always you

And you alone believed
That light could bend this way
It don't seem right
To spend tonight
As I did today

If I had known that you would call (known that you would call)

If I could dream that you would fall (dream that you would fall)

If I could change these wrongs to right

I would have stayed at home tonight

There's nothing you can do To make this all brand new And nothing you can say To make it go away

You've never been so wrong So how can you act strong When a fall from grace so hard Should never take so long

And sat goodbye as you did today

If I had known that you would call (known that you would call) If I could dream that you would fall (dream that you would fall) If I could change these wrongs to right I would have stayed at home tonight

So the speed of light remains Ever constantly the same Again tonight as it today

If I had known that you would call (known that you would call)

If I could dream that you would fall (dream that you would fall)

If I could change these wrongs to right

I would have stayed at home tonight
