

A Million Miles Away

One Less Reason

Did you ever find your place?
Did you lose the words we said?
Did you lose yourself in search of someone?
A life of letting go for a chance to get away
While you were out there did you think about me?

And even if we never get it right I needed you to know about it
I'll be right here when everybody else is gone yeah
If you're standing still or moving on yeah
If we change the world or let it fall
From a million miles
I'll be right here if you made it through the telling lies yeah
If you're fading fast or burning bright yeah
If all the wrongs don't make it right
From a million miles
And I've been so lost without your face
Now all life is all you say but that's easy to say
From a million miles away

Did you learn to live alone with the promises you made
I wish I could have kept them for you
You needed years to win the war
That you were losing day by day
Oh God I wish I could have been there for you
So even if you never get it right I needed you to know about it
I'll be right here when everybody else is gone yeah
If you're standing still or moving on yeah
If we change the world or let it fall
From a million miles
I'll be right here if you made it through the telling lies yeah
If you're fading fast or burning bright yeah
If all the wrongs don't make it right
From a million miles
And I've been so lost without your face
Now all life is all you say but that's easy to say
From a million miles away

It's easy to say from a million miles...

You said you'd never make it through but
You didn't really made it true but
You just don't give up on the ones that you love...
I'll be right here through all your lonesome broken heart yeah
From where I am to what you are
It's like a million miles

I'll be right here if you made it through the telling lies yeah
If you're fading fast or burning bright
If all the wrongs don't make it right
From a million miles
And I've been so lost without your face
Now all life is all you say but that's easy to say
From a million miles away

It's all I can say from a million miles away
I love you! Is all I can say from a million miles away...
