Another Night

One Man Army

Last night I found the answers at the bottom of my drink surrou nded by all the on goings of the hapless and the meek and when I can't feel no more my answers take me to the door with self-i nflicted wounds a lifetime spent here-to-fore holding knives in the hopes of cutting some more another night another line brok en another lie in the air amidst us another night another lie g oes on unending last night on my way home they were calling me out on the streets rubbing salt in the wounds I'd left from the fisticuffs with me and when I can't feel no more my anger take me to the door with hate down in my veins a lifetime spent her e-to-fore a lonely soul in decay and in search for the end. ano ther night another lie goes on unending another night anoth er line broken another lie in the air amidst us another lie goes on unending
