

Inside the shallow selfish rhymes I forced myself alive
There's a sound as your desperation burns me to survive
I can't decide
Stay away from me, I'm never letting go
Discord desire, I'll set this life on fire
I won't forget the other side
And all the lies around your broken pride

Left to drown inside your sorrows
There's nothing to remember or deny
And it will not afford you shelter
Nobles endeavors which we served
We complicate, exterminate
We set it off
We set ourselves alight

Can you recall how you and I were going to paint those faded walls
So what became of all the distant dreams that would intoxicate us all
I can't recall
See it now I'm coming for you
My life is so small
Some things I don't feel at all
I won't forget the other side
And all the lies around your broken pride

There's no reward because we never tried
To justify in another's eyes
To spend a life in pursuit of truth
We suffer lies and the edges wear away

You've got a name but you're not yourself
