The Well

Only Crime

I see your eyes and the cause and effect Who takes the blame and the disrespect we Strip away the goals we're forever reaching

Another page from a shattered book I want to die when I see that look I still Remember when we had something relevant to say

And we all drink from the well of might have been Where the bitter taste of yesterday keeping coming around again So I'll see you later down the line The possible the cup's half full We seize the moments here in time

No tears for the things I've missed
I don't align with the pessimistic few
If we could turn it back could we help but falter

I'm listening to Funeral
Just one more time is all I need
You can't regret the past any more than you can wish it all awa
Y

And I'm no different Got no monopoly On assimilation Of another casualty Just like me

And I don't understand
There's no sense inside
Obsessed with ourselves
We fall short and subside
