A World Divided

Our Last Night

It's taught to be afraid of me So you don't understand I'm hanging on the edge But you won't reach for my hand If we came face to face You would see no difference Between you and me (We are the same!) But we let the hate radiate Out of us like a sun Watch it burn through our veins

Divided by the colors Split by our beliefs Forced against each other Nothing's as it seems But between white walls We could forget it all The fear would fade We could start to change A world divided and afraid (A world divided and afraid!)

The rumors and lies Pull us apart Leaving us on separate sides I just play like a work of art These lies are here To keep us in the dark

Divided by the colors Split by our beliefs Forced against each other Nothing's as it seems But between white walls We could forget it all The fear would fade We could start to change A world divided and afraid

We need to break the cycle of hate We need to break the cycle of hate

Divided by the colors Split by our beliefs Forced against each other Nothing's as it seems But between white walls We could forget it all The fear would fade We could start to change A world divided and afraid (A world divided and afraid!)