

Write My Life

Out Of The Grey

I try to write a rhyme
To reveal my feelings inside
I search with every word
To find the perfect line

But just like a little child
I hide behind a clever line
You take the pencil
I've been holding much too tight

And I'm watching
You write my life, Lord
I'm seeing Your hand in all I am
I'm watching You write my life
And learning how to trust

I struggle every day
To finish this my own way
Then try to scribble out
The pain of my mistakes

But You take my hand in time
And You paint a simple line
Erasing each mistake
The pages come alive

And I'm watching
You write my life, Lord
I'm seeing Your hand in all I am
I'm watching You write my life
As only You, only You can

Oh I'm watching
You write my life, Lord
And telling the story of Your love
I'm watching You write my life
And learning how to trust

Yeah, I'm watching
You write my life, Lord
And telling the story of Your love
I'm watching You write my life
And learning how to trust

Watching my life
Watching my life
Watching my life
