

Warriors

Pallas

One small blue planet, so many shores
This land is mine, that land is yours
Your way is righteous, our way is wrong
That's been the sad and painful story all along

I recall like yeasterday the horror of it all
One image burned the screen in every home and hall
We watched in shock and awe as flesh and faith collide
Changed the world forever shadows hide now in our minds

Warriors line up to die, face each other eye to eye
There is courage in what they do, strenght and honour respect i s due
Suicide killer - why should heaven wait for you?
Suicide killer - how can you stomach what you do?

He feels his wings beneath him... he is flying
The world he's leaving will soon be changing
The gates of paradise are open, waiting
This is his dream

The girl wipes the sleep from tired eyes
Her elevator rises swiftly to the sky
Today is her birthday she hopes for a surprise
Death comes on silver wings from a cloudless sky

Warriors line up to die, face each other eye to eye
There is courage in what they do, strenght and honour respect i
s due
Suicide killer - why should heaven wait for you?
Suicide killer - how can you stomach what you do?