

Anchors

Parabelle

Do you remember me and my dear shattered soul
It's anchored like the skin to the bone and I
Remember you as one solid piece
Does it cling to you like you cling to me

No! This isn't gonna work
Everything you did just made it worse

And what gives you the right
To weaken ourselves
But is it selfish that I love you
And what gives you the right
To weaken ourselves and lie
But is it selfish that I love you

Remember me and my soft subtle touch
It empties when the blood leaves the soul and I
Remember you when I'm losing sleep
If I cling to you will you cling to me

No! It's only getting worse
Everything you did just made it worse

And what gives you the right
To weaken ourselves
But is it selfish that I love you
And what gives you the right
To weaken ourselves and lie
But is it selfish that I love you

Tip toe my tainted challenge
You've already won the war
Isn't this what you wanted
Isn't this what you wanted (WANTED!)

And what gives you the right
To weaken ourselves and lie
But is it selfish that I love you
And what gives you the right
To weaken ourselves
But is it selfish that I love you both!

This isn't gonna work (we weaken ourselves)
Everything you did just made it worse
