

Heaven Like

Parabelle

I see the change from lost to level,
I bear the wounds the weeping ones in my head tonight
So we look alike,
I see the world, the one you made up
But heaven lost that world's light and we'll be bled tonight,
It's so heaven like

Cause I was so damn lost,
I must have fallen for what you cost,
I'll let you fantasize

Falling,
Why don't you let your hair down
When you teach me a lesson and waste time,
Whatever makes your headlines,
Just face it you're carried away

The lies come in and I listen,
My catch it feels like one little let down in my once empire,
You were callous; you said it wasn't worth your time,
When it was alright, it was never enough, it was never enough

But you were so damn slow,
You fell in love with me when I let go,
I want to tell you I'm

Falling,
Why don't you let your hair down
When you teach me a lesson and waste time,
Whatever makes your headlines,
Just face it you're carried away

She was still inside you,
She was all you wanted from life
But this is where it ended,
She couldn't separate her common sense from her dedication
But my attention was never wavering,

You choked when I said you would,
This was the whirlwind's eye,
You caught yourself on fire this time

Falling,
Why don't you let your hair down
When you teach me a lesson and waste time,
Whatever makes your headlines,
Just face it you're carried away

Cause I was so damn lost
When you were so damn slow
And we were so damn close
