

Remarkable Lies (your Cover's Blown)

Parabelle

This love, this love, you never warned me
My heart is shattering, it won't be yours for long
This love, this love, you never warned me

If I could fill you soul I'd make it float cause it's going now here
If I could tell myself it different when you're not around
If I believed your ghosts I'd make them out to be gone forever
But I believe they won't believe you, won't believe you anyway

This love, this love, you never warned me
This love, this love, it wasn't yours until you

Bring back the times when we were young, bring back the calm be fore the storm
Take back the things you said, they were remarkable lies, remar kable lies

I'll steal the thoughts right from your eyes
You carry on, weak and survived

This love, this love, you never warned me
This love, this love, it wasn't yours until you

fore the storm
kable lies
You can't take back the times when you were wrong, take back th e times when you were gone Bring back the things you said, they were remarkable lies, rema rkable lies

And you only have yourself to blame Until I break you out of this, are you listening, are you liste ning, cause your cover's blown Until I break your heart again, are you listening, are you list ening, cause your cover's blown

And you're still not the one who will erase my soul
