

Twisted And Turned

Parabelle

I'm broke
Are you a proud little body
If I don't look right
Well then you're not looking right
You see the sun doesn't set so the dark can reign
It sets so it can get away
But why can't I get away from the sun
If this is yesterday all over again

I failed, I'm twisted and turned
Why don't you understand me
I'm not a lesson to be learned
I'm twisted and turned

Are you a brave little body
If it don't feel right
Well then it's not really right
And your words never tell what your heart can't feel
Your face tells me what I want to hear
And your eyes tell me that you know
That this is yesterday all over again

I failed, I'm twisted and turned
Why don't you understand me
I'm not a lesson to be learned
I'm twisted and turned

Only when (only when) the dust settles in
(raise the bar to the next lie, raise the lie to the next height)
Only then (only then) all the fireflies will find their wings
(raise the bar to the next lie, raise the lie to the next height)
Only when we lie
(raise the bar to the next lie, raise the lie to the next height)
And only then all the fireflies will find their wings

I failed, I'm twisted and turned
Why don't you understand me
I'm not a lesson to be learned
I'm twisted and turned

You failed, don't you know to look
You failed, I'm twisted and turned
