Get To You

Paradise Fears

We had so much time, Too much love to ever think of running out Summer air was intoxicating Filled my lungs but I can't stop breathing I had to take you home that night Divide the space between our minds And find a cure for a heart that's failing I'm losing sleep but I can't stop dreming (dreaming...)

I miss the time when I used to know just Just how it feels to be in over my head When I would do anything for your love When we could be anything we wanted What I'd give to touch your skin And beg your heart to feel the way it felt back then So let me in

Now I'm caving in, Wearing thin, Sick of always fading out Got my hands in my pockets, baby I try to hide it but inside I'm shaking When you're gone my heart is too, Masquerading memories of you Can't pretend that your words don't phase me Can't pretend that you don't amaze, me

I miss the time when I used to know just Just how it feels to be in over my head When I would do anything for your love When we could be anything we wanted What I'd give to touch your skin And beg your heart to feel the way it felt back then So let me in

And I'll stay perpetually in this state When your voice is out of reach And you've got me fighting the seas, But there's just too much ocean between

I miss the time when I used to know just Just how it feels to be in over my head When I would do anything for your love When we could be anything we wanted What I'd give to touch your skin And beg your heart to feel the way it felt back then So let me, so let me, so let me in I can't get to you (So let me in) I can't get to you (So let me in) I can't get to you
