

Drown in Darkness

Paradise Lost

My body falls to the depths
And darkness has engraved my mind
Blurred visions...
My hands grasp for solutions
Gagged for air...
Deeper below I sink...
Pressure on my lungs
As the water fills my mouth
Writhing as the liquid chokes
Unheard cries, darkest depths
Waters rage above...
While below I suffocate
The terror of slowly drowning
My screams remain unheard...
I lie in a watery grave
Is it too much to ask to be saved
Now my bodies drained of life
Rise to the surface motionless
Paler than white, minds lost sense thrown upon the distant shore
After submerged, life is no more
Dragged to the darkness
Breathless & silent
Gloomy shore I lie...
Die...
