For all I know The best is over and the worst is yet to come Is it enough? To keep on hoping when the rest have given up? And they go I hate to say I told you so But they love to say they told me so I hate to say I told you so They love to say they told me Say they say they told me Say they say they told me You say, you say you told me I know you like When I admit that I was wrong and you were right At least I try To keep my cool when I'm thrown into a fire And they go I hate to say I told you so But they love to say they told me so I hate to say I told you so They love to say they told me Say they say they told me Say they say they told me You say, you say you told me Throw me into the fire Throw me in, pull me out again Throw me into the fire Throw me in, pull me out again Throw me into the fire Throw me in, pull me out again Throw me into the fire Throw me in, pull me out again Throw me into the fire Throw me in, pull me out again Throw me into the fire Throw me in, pull me out again Throw me into the fire Throw me in, pull me out again Throw me into the fire Throw me in, pull me out again Throw me into the fire Throw me in, pull me out again I hate to say I told you so But they love to say they told me so I hate to say I told you so They love to say they told me

Say they say they told me Say they say they told me