

Yin Yang

Pathfinder

I'm a little drop of Water on your skin
I'm the Earth, the cold in winter night
I'm the Moon and a sadness pierces my heart
I'm submissive darkness from the north

I'm lukewarm Wind that blows about your hair
I'm the Fire, the hot in summer day
I'm the Sun and got gladness on my mouth
I'm so strong daylight of the south

Like the black with the white
Like the peace and the war
Like the Water and the Fire
We interact within a greater whole

We keep the secret of immortals
We still keep the flame of space and time
All this is for the force that mortals call
An equilibrium

We can not exist in the multiverse without each other
Just as death can't without life
Harmony and unity in the space-time
Equilibrium

We can not exist in the multiverse without each other
Just as death can't without life
Harmony and unity in the space-time
Equilibrium