

Reverse The Day

Pati Yang

This song was meant to hurt
Was meant to be
About the broken world
In a broken girl
These words
I found written on my window
By the L the lipstick dead

I thought I've seen her crying
I thought she ran too fast
I thought I'd make her stop
But I just stood there,
Watched her fight
If I could live it one more time
Reverse the day
Back to where I begun
Leaving my memories behind
I'd draw a brand new history
A brand new me

I breathe slower
As the fever comes
And takes away the stream of useless words
(No need to explain)
I dive deeper
Though I cannot swim
Air and water seems the same
Everything makes perfect sense,

Lips against the heart
Heart against the will
Toes beyond the sky
Hand beyond the reach
If I could live it one more time
Reverse the day
Back to where I begun
Leaving my memories behind
I say it standing seconds away from the edge
And the rock seems hard