Fireweed

Patrick Watson

After all the flames In the morning Quiet ashes fell For hours and hours And in the morning rise We planted our skin Like a seed in the ground

So we dug ourselves a hole And planted all our skin Like a seed in the ground To grow again

Where the fireweeds grow Where the fireweeds grow Where the fireweeds grow