

And So To Sleep Again

Patti Page

And so to sleep again, as if I'll ever sleep again.
These restless nights go on away from you;
And so to dream again, as if I'll ever dream again.
My darling since you're gone, my dreams are through.
No other arms can ease this ache within my heart;
No other lips can kiss away these tears that start.

And so to sleep again, as if I'll ever sleep again,
As if I'll ever love again anyone but you.

No other arms can ease this ache within my heart;
No other lips can kiss away these tears that start.

And so to sleep again, as if I'll ever sleep again,
As if I'll ever love again anyone but you.