

He Thinks I Still Care

Patty Loveless

Just because I ask a friend about him
Just because I spoke his name somewhere
Just because I rang his number by mistake today
He thinks I still care

Just because I haunt the same old places
Where the memory of him lingers everywhere
Just because I'm not the happy girl I used to be
He thinks I still care

But if he's happy thinkin' I still need him
Then let that silly notion bring him tears
Oh, how could he ever be so foolish?
Oh, where would he get such an idea?

Just because I ask a friend about him
Just because I spoke his name somewhere
Just because I saw him then went all to pieces
He thinks I still care, he thinks I still care
