

I Already Miss You (Like You're Already Gone)

Patty Loveless

Oh friend the hour is near, you must go
And I'll be here to face an empty life on my own
I can't hide it when I'm sad after all the joy we've had
I already miss you like you're already gone

If you could rock my heart to sleep with your breath upon my cheek
I could dream, you'd be returning with the dawn
But when I face reality, hands of time don't turn for me
I already miss you like you're already gone

I already suffer with this pain in my heart
When I stare out my window, my whole world's turning dark
In the time that remains, I will try to be strong
But I already miss you like you're already gone

I already suffer with this pain in my heart
When I stare out my window, my whole world's turning dark
In the time that remains, I will try to be strong
But I already miss you like you're already gone
I already miss you like you're already gone
