

Your Time To Change

Pavement

Your time to change, your life arranged
She's not sure what to say
He's about to lose his mind today
And it's all about to change, about to change

I find it hard every time you stand
She's not sure what to say
He's about to lose his mind today
And it's all about to change, about to change

She's not sure how to play
He's about to lose all of that
And it's all about to change, about to change

She found the tongue, the tongue you won
She's not sure what to say
He's about to lose his mind today
And it's all about to change, about to change

About to change
About to change
About to change

About to change
About to change
About to change
