

Try To Hang On

Pavlov's Dog

Why try to hang on
When you know for sure that she's gone
Why even try when she goes away
You let yourself go
And you know it's beginning to show
Why even try when she goes away
It's all in the cards and you know that you're losing the odds
They say you're just lucky
To just be alive
So it seems now in time
A plan comes into your mind
How to get your girl back
Even at the cost of some time

Do you think that it's worth it
Would you break in a cold sweat
Put yourself clear don't let them put you away

And if there is no use in crying
What good would it do to be lying
Get your girl back
And don't let them put you away

Now you'd better hang on...I know
And get your girl back
You'd better hang on
