Light

Periphery

In sunshine's view The absence of love Behold what's blinding you Serpent or dove Between uncertainties Tethered wings and captive dreams aren't worth the suffering Open your eyes Devotion deprived Deny the very thing that you've accepted this life is about Listen to my words Defy devotion Sick from the fall behind the wall So I demand of you, stand up and see Before they saw what I was becoming Before it kept me form reaching... The light Can't seem to understand it Can't seem to know Listen to the vacant soul The child has lost his way Tension Suffering the hole Something against me I won't try Never again I will not remember Between the lines I sing with doubt Behind this will fall Lost in night and day Breathing for me Listen to the way I enter the world In time this lie will become me The things I've done to forget my dying senses Weary from this act alone In vein six days away Return from the fall Just find a ray of light to help me ascend That is the only way
