

Here Comes That Song Again

Perry Como

Here comes that song again
Soft in your arms, I hear the words begin
They promise this time the melody won't end
Here comes that song again

There's a tender song inside me
Only your sweet voice can play
I heard it once but it disappeared
On the day you went away

As time slipped by
I thought that I'd forgotten all the lines
But then last night we met again
And I heard them one more time

Here comes that song again
Soft in your arms, I hear the words begin
They promise this time the melody won't end
Here comes that song again

With the early mornin' raindrops
Dancin' on my window pane
You hold me and I hear my song
Keepin' time with the fallin' rain

Now, I don't know what made you go
Or brought you back last night
I only know my love for you
Is a song that feels so right

Here comes that song again
Soft in your arms, I hear the words begin
They promise this time the melody won't end
Here comes that song again

Here comes that song again
Soft in your arms I hear the words begin
They promise this time
The melody won't end
