

Does It Matter Now?

Peter Bjorn and John

It might be, 'gainst your will but now you have to talk, you know you have to talk your eyes red, thunder ball you're making it hard, I will not let it go I don't need to succeed just need to hear ou speak, to crack up now and speak speak your mind, tell me your thughts, I can wait or use force I can waste all the time that you need, to make clear it really was wasted

It is strange, how you change you sure were dull before, but this is beyond beyond can't you see, it's your loss I see it in your eyes, not happy are they, those eyes carrying or careless, they're hard to tell apart for you, and where's your heart in your chest or in your head, sketching vauge sceneries might take place, later on, that will wreck all apart, but does it matter now?