A perfect date

Peter Hammill

A perfect date to hesitate. I hope it won't be too long. You're a sucker for the punch and the telegraph bells are ringing now it's coming to the crunch as you stumble on the Jaffa Gate. I think you know how it happens on the stage when the heavenly ch oir are singing you've been taken by a perfect date.

You made the Mount of Venus your Jerusalem, you're marking time as symbol for debate, you hope to find some moment close to in finite, you hope to find a perfect date.

A perfect date to hesitate. The future beckons us on. There com es a time to hesitate - I hope it won't be too long.

You're a sucker for the punch....you've been taken by a perf ect date. You've been playing on a hunch and the strings of you r heart are zinging: Yeh, you cut loose from the bunch But that doesn't mean you've sealed your fate I think you know how it h appens Though it's strange When the heavenly choir start singing You've been taken by a perfect date
