

Half The Time

Peter Mulvey

Half the time you do not listen, half the time you have your Head in the sand, your heart in your hand and you Have the time to ask the questions, then you walk out on the an swers

But I swear to you that one day you will understand
You will understand

If you have the time to hold the hand of the one who comes from the land

Where your heart is true to her and you

Will begin to see the sunrise, and the light that is in her eye s

And I swear to you that one day, you will understand
You will understand

Half the time I say I love you all I mean is that I want to be the man

That you hold in the hand of your heart

If you carry me forever, if we part we'll be together

And I swear to you that one day I will understand

You will understand
