When I opened your letter yesterday I could not believe my eyes 'Cos I've already given all I have to give And I think it must have slipped your mind But I remember not so long ago I gave it all, it's gone And I gave it all to you Now I'm living on borrowed time, but it's mine Oh, d'you hear me? I cannot believe it's true Are you really doing the things you do. No I cannot believe it's you, really you Oh these people I'm talking to don't understand They don't seem to realize They're listening but they're not hearing me They're being too cruel to be kind Any kind of feeling that I had is gone 'Cos I gave it all, it's gone And I gave it all to you Now I'm living on borrowed time, but it's mine Oh, d'you hear me? I cannot believe it's true Are you really doing the things you do. No I cannot believe it's you, really you Over and over I keep on telling myself Over and over I hope I'm gonna make up Over and over I know it's really happening And there's nothing that I can say 'Cos nothing can change all the things that you've done to me Nothing can make me stay Oh, 'cos you know I cannot believe it's true Are you really doing the things you do No I cannot believe it's you, really you I know it's a crying shame, it's all the same to you It seems all so well laid out but I cannot get through Never meant it to show It started happening, that's all you know. Oh, I gave it all to you Now I'm living on borrowed time, but it's mine Oh, d'you hear me? I cannot believe it's true Are you really doing the things you do No I cannot believe it's you, really you Over and over I keep on telling myself Over and over I Hope I'm gonna make up But over and over I know it's really happening

And there's nothing that I can say

'Cos nothing can change all the things that you do to me

Nothing can make me stay

'Cos you know I cannot believe it's true Are you really doing the things you do No I cannot believe it's you, really you