

Broken Promises

Phoenix Effect

You let me in so I could guide your hand
A quest for gold that yielded lead
So many things I still do not understand Would rear their ugly heads instead

No instigation, just run away (Away...)
With nothing to fall back on (Back on...) no skin left to flay

What you needed the most were no more of these ghosts... of my broken promises
What you needed the most never even came close to my...
broken promises

Sedated sorrow palms a lazy coin You'll find no vindication here Flashing a fast lane if you've come to join The ill fated fortune of the year

Castles we built now crumble like smiles (Smiles...)
Skeleton hope now (Now...) eaten by trials

What you needed the most were no more of these
ghosts... of my broken promises
What you needed the most never even came close to my...
broken promises

How you choose to wear your heart
Is how they'll cast your part
How you choose to wear your heart
You wear a world upon your sleeve
The way you choose to wear your heart Is how they will tear you apart
Do you choose to save the world or to decieve

What you needed the most were no more of these
ghosts... of my broken promises
What you needed the most never even came close to my...
broken promises
