So don't mind going on
Feels like I'm doing laps around everyone
Healing factor turning on
Take your pills, let's get it off another day

When it's time to go outside Please leave your shades at home You look like such a dick sometimes Yeah, look who's talking, I know

We all wanna go out and play And know that it's not And know that it's nothing We all wanna go out and play It's not that bizarre Know that it's nothing

Daylight embracing darkness always
Feels like they're racing death to the porch
Crust of the Earth is flaking off
Changing the time zones, confusing the true north

Here is the note I won't avoid
Hear when I say this now
When static is all that's left on the phone
Feel free to change the channel

Healing factor turning on Take your pills, let's get it off another day

When it's time to go outside Please leave your shades at home You look like such a dick sometimes Yeah, look who's talking, I know

We all wanna go out and play And know that it's not And know that it's nothing We all wanna go out and play It's not that bizarre Know that it's nothing

Starlight is blazing and it's the only Source of illumination of course Weight of the humans taken off Shedding the ozone, finding a new home

This is the number, please look it over Everything else is just a distractor (Shrugging extinction off)