

Walking On Both Sides

Pink Turns Blue

I don't know I thing outside suffering endless through my life I've seen too much I'm all alone

Who likes to sit around and wait but to act that means to fail
All I ever thought was wrong

Damn the madness of my pride the price I paid was much too high My dreams became reality

Cause I'm walking on both sides

Much more real than my life
I am caged by thick ice Makes me gloomy and morose

Why I dared to go so far lost my strength and lost my heart I've to stay somewhere between

Cause I'm walking on both sides

Can't escape reality always travelling in my dreams Nothing I could take for true How should I know whether I love you whether I love you

I'm walking on both sides
