

Stranger

Plan B

The places that I go to
Haven't been any good for my health
I've been a stranger to myself
More than anyone else
Anything I put you through
You should know I put myself through it first
So of course I know it hurts
That's what makes it worse

And still you treat me like a stranger
Keep on looking down at me as if you're up on a shelf
You treat me like a stranger
But I guess that aint no different than I treat myself

With regard to moving on
We really shouldn't take too long
If you feel the way I think you do
Just give me the sign babe and I'll be gone
It aint worth all this pain
And all the shit we're putting each other through
You and I have different points of view
And somewhere in between them both lies the truth

And still you treat me like a stranger
Keep on looking down at me as if you're up on a shelf
You treat me like a stranger
But I guess that aint no different than I treat myself

And no matter what they say
No one knows you
No one knows me
No one knows us like they think they do
And there aint no way that anyone could
And there aint no reason anyone should

You know you really got to dig down deeper
Deeper than you've ever dug
Down before in your life
Sometimes the hardest thing to do's what you don't want to
But you do it anyway because you know it's right

And still you treat me like a stranger
Keep on looking down at me as if you're up on a shelf
You treat me like a stranger
But I guess that aint no different than I treat myself

You know you really got to dig down deeper
Deeper than you've ever dug
Down before in your life
Sometimes the hardest thing to do's what you don't want to
But you do it anyway because you know it's right

...And still you treat me like a stranger
