

Wake up

Plan Three

Now I just fell to the ground
And woke up to the sound of an earthquake
A sudden glitch as I close my eyes
And I just crashed into the sky
And thought of the moon as it flew by
Now I lay here and watch you sleep

So wake up for a little bit, just a little bit
So wake up for a little bit

Well I just drove into a storm
And woke up to a world that was airborne
I toss and turn and I am done
Well I just sank into an ocean deep
With everything submersing around me
Sedating words make tranquil rhyme

So wake up for a little bit, just a little bit
So wake up for a little bit, no

There's a universe growing between these walls
I know I shouldn't be thinking about it all, do you

And I just fell to the ground

So wake up, yeah wake up

Wake up for a little bit, just a little bit
So wake up
Wake up for a little bit, just a little bit
So wake up

There's a universe growing between these walls
I know I shouldn't be thinking about it all, do you
