

When Everything Comes To An End

Plan Three

Would you say we're doing alright?
Or would you change this life for another?
Do you run or stay and fight?
Go on your own or stay together?

As we all fall in line
We're blind in our hearts
Chasing shadows that lead our way

When everything comes to an end
We bow to you
The frail the bruised
Who start anew
When everything comes to an end
You play the fool
The painful truth
Is told through you

There's a flicker in your eyes
Neither light or dark, gray or color
And I might strike you as unkind
When I shut my eyes, while you suffer

Will we all fall in line
When light has been lost
Casting shadows that lead our way

When everything comes to an end
We bow to you
The frail the bruised
Who start anew
When everything comes to an end
You play the fool
The painful truth
Is told through you

Are you falling out of life?
In a sudden glimpse of light
On and on forever
Are we running out of time
Or are we running for our lives?
Is that alright?

Your tale goes on
No wages lost
Your tale goes on
No wages lost

When everything comes to an end
We bow to you
The frail the bruised
Who start anew
When everything comes to an end
You play the fool
The painful truth
Is told through you

Would you say we're doing alright?
Or would you change this life for another?
Do you run or stay and fight?
Go on your own or stay together?
